

HOW PRIZE BABY IS BEING RAISED

Russell Nelson, With Score of Ninety-nine and Half, Lives
Strictly by Rule.

By EDITH LOBERT.

"How does it feel to be the mother of a prize baby? Well, I'm certainly very happy over it, to say the least."

A delighted little woman in blue caught up her baby in her arms at the conclusion of the final tests in the better babies contest at the Washington Diet Kitchen, 1322 Twenty-eight street, yesterday.

She was Mrs. Nesmith Nelson of 23 Rhode Island avenue, whose ten-month-old son, Russell, had just received the first prize of $25 and a bronze medal, attesting to the fact that he was the best-formed baby in the eighty or more entries in the contest. His score was 99.5, a remarkable showing when the rigidity of the examination is considered. Baby Nelson is a second child, having a brother nine and a half years old.

"He has never been ill in his life," she said. "The boy's father is a physician and we have always given the baby the best scientific care. And by the best scientific care I mean a number of simple things which are within reach of every mother."

Baby Fed Properly.

"First of all, Russell is a breast-fed baby. To my mind the larger per cent of baby ailments come from improper feeding. All this source of danger is eliminated by nourishing the child in the way nature intended. As he is now ten months old he is fed every three hours. That varies of course with the age of the child."

"Next, he is always scrupulously clean. This is most important, and certainly not beyond the attainment of any mother. These are the two important essentials in keeping the child well."

"And what makes him such a sturdy little chap?" I asked.

"Fresh air," she replied without an instant's hesitation. "No matter what the weather is, the baby gets his fresh air constitutional every day. He has never breathed any impure air, for when he is indoors I see to it that the rooms are properly ventilated."

"Another essential is that the mother keep well and happy, too. A sunny, cheerful mother is a big factor in a baby's well-being. Russell is used to seeing smiling faces about him."

The bronze medal was encased in silver, a truly handsome trophy. Baby Russell, however, was far more absorbed in a woolly-headed doll than in the badge of honor which proclaimed him the "best baby."

Enjoys Attention.

He seemed to enjoy the admiring attentions of the women who flocked around him at the close of the contest, and cooed contentedly at it winning prizes were a part of his every day existence.

The decision came after a strenuous week and a half on the part of the physicians and nurses at the Diet Kitchen. The scores were remarkably high and close. The other babies who were re-examined were fine specimens of babyhood also.

Certificates were awarded as follows: Class 1, Ralph Kneipp, 8 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kneipp, 229 B street northeast, who had a score of 97; class 2, Earl C. Carpenter, 22 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lena Carpenter, whose score was 95; class 3, Mary Dolores Carroll, 10 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Carroll, 188 New York street northwest, with a score of 95; class 4, Eleanor A. Lane, 24 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Lane, whose score was 92.

Of almost equal excellence were the "runners up."

They were Matthew Trimble Sawtelle, 22 months old, score 90, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sawtelle, 1111 Connecticut street northwest; Charlotte Candee White, 2 years old, score 90, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. White, 101 Summit place northwest; Marjorie Walker, 33 months old, score 89, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Walker, 709 Rock Creek road, and Aurelia Mae Brown, 24 months old, score 88, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Brown, Cherry, D. C.

Among the interested spectators were Miss Mary Gwynn, president of the Washington Diet Kitchen, Miss Nellie Aldis, Miss Sarah Lee, Miss Hauge, Mrs. James Harlan, Mrs. John H. Merriam, and Dr. Clara Smith King.

Encouraged by Contests.

"We feel greatly encouraged over the success of the contest," said Miss Gwynn, president. "As this is the first one ever held in the city the showing made by the babies and the general interest evinced in it by the public are indeed gratifying."

The work of establishing these diet kitchens throughout the city is only in its beginning. We want the people of Washington to feel that this movement is for the benefit of the city as a whole, as well as for Georgetown.

"I think the association can be pardonedly proud of the results of its efforts in its short existence of only six months."

The scores of each baby entered in the contest will be forwarded to his mother so that she may know just wherein her baby failed to come up to the standards. She may also have the privilege of bringing it to the clinic to learn how these defects may be remedied. The clinics, however, are open to all mothers who wish to avail themselves of its advantages, whether they have been contestants or not.

Another contest will be held in the spring, and those who were not listed among the winners may have another chance.

HERE'S THE BETTER BABY AND ITS HAPPY MOTHER

"BEST" BABY NELSON.

Here Is Daily Schedule Of Nearly Perfect Baby, Hour by Hour

Here is the daily schedule of Baby Nelson, the prize winner in the "Better Babies" contest, who was only half of 1 per cent less than a perfect score.

Awakes at 7 a. m. Face and hands washed and clean clothes put on. First nursing at 7:30. From then until 10 a. m. he crawls about in a clean, properly ventilated room. Then he is thoroughly bathed and powdered, having his mouth and gums washed with boracic acid.

At 10:30 he has his second nursing, followed by a nap which lasts two hours. At 1:30 he gets a third nursing and has a clean dress. Then he is wrapped up snugly and is taken for a ride for one or two hours, depending upon the weather.

The fresh air makes him sleepy and hungry, so at 3:30 he is ready for another nursing and a nap. Between 4:30 and 6:30 he is permitted to crawl about and enjoy his toys. This affords him exercise and strengthens his little muscles. He usually wakes his 6:30 nursing, then after bathing his face and hands he is put into a fresh "nightie" and tucked away in his crib for a sound sleep.

Encouraged by Contests.

IMPETUS IS GIVEN TO FOOD INQUIRY

Officials Spurred On in Inquiry
Program by Expensive
Feast for Thanksgiving.

With the country aroused over the cost of its Thanksgiving dinner today impetus was given to plans placed under way for a sweeping Congressional investigation of the high cost of living problem during the coming regular session of Congress.

No matter what the outcome of the crusade opened up by the Department of Justice against the cold storage interests may be, Congressional leaders are planning a thorough inquiry into the subject of the cost of living and the responsibility of the trusts therefore.

Bills Before Committee.

When Chairman Adamson calls the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce together at the beginning of the session, next week, that body will begin consideration of the following bills now before it, which seek to turn the searchlight on the subject of high prices:

By McKeller of Tennessee—Barring from interstate commerce all food products which have been in storage more than ninety days.

By Cary of Wisconsin—Limiting the time various foodstuffs may be kept in storage and preventing misbranding and adulteration.

By Vane of New York—Placing a limit of ten months for the storage of food products.

By Murdoch of Kansas—Providing for an interstate trade commission, with power to correct cold storage combinations.

By McDonald of Michigan—Calling for an investigation of the effect of concentration of ownership on the cost of living question.

By Gorman of Illinois—Providing for an international conference on the cost of living question.

By Britten of Illinois—To investigate Argentine beef prices.

In addition to this there are a number of bills pending which relate to the trust problem in general.

Cold Storage Problem.

Without waiting for Congressional action, however, Attorney General McReynolds issued orders for a sweeping investigation of the cold storage problem by special agents of his department.

The investigation centers in New York and Chicago. At New York Special Agent Office is leading the investigation with the aid of his department's chief of pending which relate to the trust problem in general.

At Chicago, Mr. DeWoody will look into the part the packers have played in bringing about the storage problem.

Mr. DeWoody also is expected to look into the activity of James E. Wetz, head of the so-called "egg trust."

It is said to be making a profit of $120 a car on seventeen carloads of eggs bought when the market was low and held in storage until the price went up.

Already the Department of Justice is receiving letters from consumers' organizations offering assistance in the campaign.

The Egg Club, of Cleveland, which has been a factor in an anti-high price campaign in that city, has offered its services, and Special Agent Clabaugh, at Cincinnati, has been instructed to contact with the organization.

The Housekeepers' Alliance, of Washington, is one of the organizations of this character, which has expressed its willingness to co-operate with the Department of Justice in a campaign to drive down prices.

Hold Little Hope.

Promises of relief from Argentina by bringing down beef prices are discouraged by Department of Agriculture officials. Following the introduction of a resolution by Congressman Britten, who asks why the Navy Department can purchase Argentine beef cheaper than the American product.

Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, who has just completed a thorough investigation of the problem in South America, declares that Europe draws so largely on South American beef that America cannot hope to enhance its supply from that source.

At the same time he says, the South American product is dark from freezing and this is objectionable to American consumers.

All these facts bearing on the excessive cost of foodstuffs and the expense of dinner table are to be made a part of the dual investigation of the subject by Congress and the Department of Justice, with the probability that the Department of Agriculture and Commerce will eventually be brought into the investigation.

WEDDING FLOWERS SENT TO HOSPITALS

White House Decorations Are Used to Add Cheer to the Many Shut-Ins.

Hundreds of sick and maimed in the hospitals of the National Capital awoke this morning to find beside their beds large bouquets of American beauty roses, lilies of the valley, orchids, chrysanthemums and other flowers—a Thanksgiving remembrance of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre.

Before Mr. and Mrs. Sayre left on their secret honeymoon Tuesday night a request was made that the wealth of flowers and floral decorations, which made the White House wedding a scene of wonderful beauty, should be sent to the hospitals to gladden the hearts of the unfortunate patients. The wishes of the distinguished couple were carried out and the sentiment was the cause of much joy.

Floral Decorations Removed.

After the reception of the Cabinet women yesterday morning, by Mrs. Wilson, when they were allowed to view the wonderful array of wedding gifts, the workmen filed into the East Room and proceeded to remove the white Annunciation lilies, which had adorned the altar and mantel of the room.

These filled a large wagon, and, together with the beautiful maidenhair ferns and palms that were used with them were taken to one hospital, and all the white chrysanthemums that adorned the red corridor through which the bride party had marched to the altar, where the wedding ceremony was said, were sent to another institution, and so on until every flower had performed a double duty.

All the set pieces which had been sent by the members of the Diplomatic Corps, as well as many other guests, were distributed among the sick, and many an ill person is forgetting pain and giving thanks for remembrance from the White House yesterday.

Those that had been used to adorn the state parlors were particularly beautiful, being chiefly white roses, lilies of the valley, orchids of every kind and description, chrysanthemums, galore, and the hundred of American beauty roses that formed the principal decorations in the Red Room. From the State dining room and the private dining room where the bride's supper was served, many bunches of pink roses and chrysanthemums.

The house guests have all left the White House now with the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Legare Walker, of South Carolina, and Mrs. Edward Brown and Miss Mary Joseph Brown, of New Orleans, the only relatives of Mrs. Wilson who attended the wedding. They will remain at the White House for several longer and expect to accompany the Presidential party to New York for the Army and Navy football game on Saturday.

Bridal Gifts Being Packed.

Packing and labeling the gifts ready to be shipped to the Sayre home in Williamstown, Mass., is now occupying much time and attention at the White House. Many out-of-town guests have been remembered also with a piece of the wedding cake and after they have all been remembered it is said that the remainder of the cake is to be given to the charitable institutions in Washington, and so far as it is possible many people in the city will have a souvenir of the White House wedding who are shut-ins and are the people whose interests have always been closest to the heart of the White House bride.

Up to the present time the bridal couple have not been discovered, but it is known in New York that they have engaged passage on the George Washington, which sails for Europe on Saturday.

Gifts Still Coming In.

Gifts to the bride still continue to pour into the White House, and even during the ceremony a number of packages were brought in. One of the latest to arrive is a beautiful American emerald weighing about 100 carats, presented by Lovett Fraser, of New York, through Dr. W. T. Grenfell. The stone was found in North Carolina, on property owned by Mr. Fraser, and was cut by American lapidaries. It is inclosed in a heart-shaped silver box bearing the monogram, "J. W. W."

Paymaster and Funds Gone.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Fleet Paymaster John M. Lowry has disappeared from his post, and the whereabouts of about $5,000 of government funds are also missing. Scotland Yard detectives are seeking Lowry.

ZELAYA'S ARREST BRINGS A PROTEST

Attorneys for Former Dictator of Nicaragua Confer With Solicitor Folk.

Whether Jose Santos Zelaya, former dictator of Nicaragua, shall be extradited to that country to meet a charge of murder must be passed on by the State Department.

Attorneys representing Zelaya, who was taken out of bed in a New York apartment house last night, held two conferences with Joseph W. Folk, Solicitor of the department, today. They protested against his arrest on cable information from the Nicaraguan government. Any offenses committed, the lawyers argued, were purely political in their nature.

Constitution Is Cited.

They called attention to the provision of the Federal Constitution granting refuge to political offenders and predicted that the demand for Zelaya's extradition would be rejected.

Solicitor Folk will examine the papers in the case very carefully. The Zelaya arrest raises a question which may later on become troublesome. It is to what extent this Government can act in aiding Central and South American nations to have returned to their jurisdiction ruling officials who have been overthrown. Because of this, the Department of State intends making a complete investigation of the entire nature and surroundings of the present charge against Zelaya.

Solicitor Folk said today that an erroneous impression of the offenses alleged has gone abroad in this country. The deported dictator is not wanted in and Gracia, the two Americans executed for the murder of Cannon by his order. The murder for which extradition is asked is that of native Nicaraguans. No action has been taken by the present Nicaraguan government toward calling Zelaya to account for the Cannon and Gracia killing, and is looked for at this late date. Zelaya's extradition did not fall in the charge brought against him in the cable information now in the hands of the State Department.

Asks To See Papers.

Attorney Cory M. Stadden, representing Zelaya, asked permission to inspect the extradition papers on which the arrest was made. He was told they have not yet reached the department, but are expected tomorrow. Then Stadden told Solicitor Folk that an inspection of the consular report for 1901 would show that the alleged murders could not be attributed to Zelaya.

"Your report will show," said Stadden, "that Toribio was killed at Managua by the police while attempting to commit a robbery, and that Fineda was killed by the lieutenant governor of Masaya province after he had attempted to assassinate the latter's chief."

Stadden suggested to Folk that if it were found that the consular report showed these facts Zelaya could not be held for murder inasmuch as he was in Managua at the time these two men were killed. He also said that the Nicaraguan government has not taken any action to have Zelaya extradited, and that he has been back to Nicaragua so that he can be murdered.

It is not expected that a decision will be reached by the State Department for several days.

Coxey's Aide Fails To Make His Speech

Carl Browne, chief lieutenant to "General" Coxey in the march to Washington in 1894, did not make his second attempt to speak from the steps of the Capitol today, as he had planned. Owing to the cold, disagreeable weather, Browne declared he would put off the Capital steps speech until Christmas.

Browne's first attempt to speak from the Capitol was May 1, 1894, when he was placed under arrest. He believes that the Democratic Administration will not interfere with him when he tries it again.

The flight Browne had planned to attempt in the "octoplane" has been delayed also was postponed.

Finder of Suitcase Is Released From Jail

The Thanksgiving gift of Assistant United States Attorney Ralph Given to Louis Jackson, colored, was his release from custody. Jackson was arrested by Policeman C. S. Montgomery to explain the ownership of a suitcase left by Jackson in an H street saloon.

The suitcase contained the gown he wore by Miss Henrietta L. Stadden, of Wilmington, Del., at the White House wedding, and it had dropped from a taxicab conveying the Delaware guest from the Union Station to the wedding place. Jackson said he left it in the saloon until he could see it advertised as lost.
